Re: Whitaker v. On the Right Track Systems, Inc.
21-cv-840 (PKC)

Dear Judge Castel:

I represent the defendant, On the Right Track Systems, Inc. I write this Pre-Motion Letter with respect to defendant's proposed motion to dismiss under Rule 12(b). An Initial Pre-Trial Conference is currently scheduled for March 25, 2021.

This case arises from a Patent License Agreement made by Curtain Cuts, LLC, as licensor, and On the Right Track, as licensee. The plaintiff, Jennifer L. Whitaker, seeks recovery of royalties allegedly owed under the Agreement, claiming to be "the successor to Curtain Cuts, the assignee of Curtain Cuts, and/or an intended third-party beneficiary of the Agreement." She has alleged three claims: breach of contract, unjust enrichment, and quantum merit. Not one is viable.

On July 27, 2010, U.S. Patent No. 7,761,935 was issued to Jennifer L. Whitaker for a "shower curtain with flap for use with tub transfer bench." Complaint ¶ 5 & id., Ex. 1. On January 18, 2011, Ms. Whitaker assigned the '935 Patent to Curtain Cuts, a Virginia limited liability company. Id., Ex. 1. On January 31, 2011, Curtain Cuts entered into a Patent License Agreement with On the Right Track with respect to the '935 Patent. Id., Ex. 2. The allegation that Ms. Whitaker herself "entered into" the Patent License Agreement with On the Right Track [id. ¶ 14] deserves no credence. L-7 Designs, Inc. v. Old Navy, LLC, 647 F.3d 419, 422 (2d Cir. 2011) (court need not accept the truth of plaintiff's allegations when they are contradicted by documents attached to the complaint). Since she was never a party to the Patent License Agreement, she can have no claim against On the Right Track for breach of the Agreement. See Mazzei v. Money Store, 829 F.3d 260, 270 (2d Cir. 2016) (to prove breach-of-contract claim, plaintiff "required to prove ... a contractual relationship with defendants"); In re Miller, 40 A.D.3d 861, 862, 835 N.Y.S.2d 728, 729 (2d Dep't 2007) (appellants "not entitled to the benefit of the arbitration clauses in the partnership agreements to which they were not parties"); Kensington Court Assocs. v. Gullo, 180 A.D.2d 888, 889-90, 579 N.Y.S.2d 485, 486 (3d Dep't 1992) ("Without a contract capable of enforcement there can be no breach").

On May 10, 2013, Curtain Cuts filed Articles of Cancellation with the Commonwealth of Virginia State Corporation Commission. Exhibit A. In the Articles of Cancellation, signed by Jennifer Whitaker, Curtain Cuts represented [at ¶ 3]: "These articles of cancellation are submitted for filing for the following reason(s): Business closed." Id. Curtain Cuts also represented [at ¶ 4]: "The limited liability company has completed the winding up of its affairs." Id. The State Corporation Commission issued a Certificate of Cancellation with an effective date of May 23, 2013. Id.

Under section 13.1-1050 of the Virginia Limited Liability Company Act, upon the effective date of the certificate of cancellation, "the existence of the limited liability company shall cease, except for the purpose of suits, other proceedings, and appropriate actions by members as provided in this chapter." Curtain Cuts had the right under section 13.1-1050.4 to apply to the Corporation Commission "for reinstatement within five years" of the effective date of its Certificate of Cancellation. Curtain Cuts never filed such an application.

As of May 23, 2013, Curtain Cuts could pursue "any remedy available to or against the limited liability company or its members or managers for any right or claim existing, or any liability incurred, before the cancellation." Va. Code Ann. § 13.1-1050.5. Under section 213 of the New York Civil Practice Law & Rules, "an action upon a contractual obligation or liability" must be commenced within six years. 2138747 Ontario, Inc. v. Samsung C & T Corp., 31 N.Y.3d 372, 375, 78 N.Y.S.3d 703, 705 (2018). In Virginia, the statute of limitations for commencing an action on a written contract is five years. Hensel Phelps Constr. Co. v. Thompson Masonry Contractor, Inc., 292 Va. 695, 702, 791 S.E.2d 734, 737 (2016). Any claim held by Curtain Cuts against On the Right Track under the Patent License Agreement as of the effective date of the Certificate of Cancellation became time barred no later than May 23, 2019.

Curtain Cuts could never have asserted a post-cancellation claim. To establish a claim for breach of contract, a plaintiff must prove, inter alia, "performance of the plaintiff's obligations under the contract." Diesel Props S.r.l. v. Greystone Bus. Credit II LLC, 631 F.3d 42, 52 (2d Cir. 2011). Under Virginia law, winding up is completed when all debts, liabilities and obligations of the company have been paid, or a reasonable adequate provision made for them, and all remaining property has been distributed to the members. Va. Code Ann. § 13.1-1049; In re Garrison-Ashburn, L.C., 253 B.R. 700, 707 (Bankr. E.D. Va. 2000). The Complaint alleges [at ¶ 13] that, upon the winding up of Curtain Cuts, the '935 Patent devolved to Jennifer Whitaker. If so, Curtain Cuts could not have possibly performed, and perforce could not have possibly had a claim under, the Patent License Agreement since May 23, 2013. On the Right Track could not have possibly breached a contract with an entity that does not exist.

Jennifer Whitaker posits her personal right to recover for breach of contract by proclaiming herself a third-party beneficiary of the Patent License Agreement. Complaint ¶ 22. Her proclamation finds no basis in the Agreement, and the Court has no obligation to accept this “legal conclusion couched as a factual allegation.” Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 555 (2007); PHL Variable Ins. Co. v. Town of Oyster Bay, 929 F.3d 79, 89 (2d Cir. 2019).

A third party can assert a claim for breach of contract only if he is an intended beneficiary. Dormitory Auth. v. Samson Constr. Co., 30 N.Y.3d 704, 710, 70 N.Y.S.3d 893, 897 (2018). The contracting parties’ intent to benefit the third party must be expressed by “clear contractual language.” CWCapital Investments LLC v. CWCapital Cobalt VR Ltd., 182 A.D.3d 448, 452, 122 N.Y.S.3d 595, 600 (1st Dep’t 2020). Unless such intent is apparent from the face of the contract, the third party is merely an incidental beneficiary, i.e., someone who may derive a benefit from the performance of the contract but is neither the promisee nor the one to whom performance is to be rendered. Roosevelt Islanders for Responsible Southtown Dev. v. Roosevelt Island Operating Corp., 291 A.D.2d 40, 58, 735 N.Y.S.2d 83, 98 (1st Dep’t 2001).

The Complaint nowhere cites any specific language in the Patent License Agreement identifying Jennifer Whitaker as an intended beneficiary or indicating she would be the lone party with an interest in the royalties to be paid. See Miller & Wrubel, P.C. v. Todtman, Nachamie, Spizz & Johns, P.C., 106 A.D.3d 446, 965 N.Y.S.2d 408, 409 (1st Dep’t 2013). There is a good reason for this silence: there is no such language. Ms. Whitaker is, at best, an incidental beneficiary with no right to enforce the Patent License Agreement. Artwear, Inc. v. Hughes, 202 A.D.2d 76, 82, 615 N.Y.S.2d 689, 692 (1st Dep’t 1994).

Jennifer Whitaker signed the Patent License Agreement as an agent for a disclosed principal – Curtain Cuts, the company she formed to license her invention. If she wanted to be a direct beneficiary of the Patent License Agreement, she could have signed the Agreement directly with On the Right Track on her own behalf. She instead deliberately chose to license the patent to her company and have the company contract with On the Right Track – a classic licensing structure designed to shield the inventor from personal liability. Having availed herself of that privilege, she cannot now claim she was really contracting in her personal capacity. What she now claims as her mere private intention is insufficient to overcome the actual language of the Patent License Agreement. See Steelmasters, Inc. v. Household Mfg. Co., 40 A.D.2d 963, 338 N.Y.S.2d 451, 452 (1st Dep’t 1972).

Jennifer Whitaker contends she became a successor to Curtain Cuts by virtue of the last sentence in section 11.1 of the Patent License Agreement: “This Agreement is binding upon and inures to the benefit of the parties hereto and their permitted successors and assigns.” Complaint ¶ 16. She can take no solace from this sentence. Such a provision “merely makes the agreement assignable but does not work an assignment thereof.” Meado-Lawn Homes v. Westchester Lighting Co., 171 Misc. 669, 670, 13 N.Y.S.2d 709, 711 (Sup. Ct. N.Y. Co. 1939), aff’d, 259 A.D. 810, 20 N.Y.S.2d 396 (1st Dep’t), aff’d, 284 N.Y. 667 (1940).

Claiming to be the successor of Curtain Cuts does Jennifer Whitaker no good. A “successor” is “one that succeeds or follows; one who takes the place that another has left and sustains the like part or character.” VKK Corp. v. Natl. Football League, 244 F.3d 114, 130 (2d Cir. 2001) (quoting Black’s Law Dictionary, 1446 (7th ed.1999)). Even if she succeeded to the company’s rights – an invalid legal conclusion – as the successor, she “stands in the shoes” of Curtain Cuts and “does not obtain any greater rights than those originally possessed.” N.Y.S. Workers’ Comp. Bd. v. Marsh U.S.A., Inc., 126 A.D.3d 1085, 1087, 5 N.Y.S.3d 547, 550 (3d Dep’t 2015). Since Curtain Cuts could not have brought this lawsuit, Jennifer Whitaker is barred from doing so. New Greenwich Litig. Tr., LLC v. Citco Fund Servs. (Europe) B.V., 145 A.D.3d 16, 27, 41 N.Y.S.3d 1, 10 (1st Dep’t 2016) (standing “in the shoes” of its predecessor, successor bankruptcy trustee could not bring lawsuit predecessor could not have brought).

Jennifer Whitaker’s claim to have been the assignee of Curtain Cuts is refuted by Patent License Agreement, which provides [at ¶ 11.1]:

Neither party may assign this Agreement, in whole or in part, without the prior written consent of the other party; provided, however, either party may assign this Agreement to an entity succeeding, whether by sale, merger, or other corporate reorganization, to substantially all of its assets and business activity for which this Agreement has been entered into upon written notice to the other party and assumption by such successor entity of the assigning party’s obligations hereunder. Any attempted assignment in contravention of the foregoing shall be void and of no force or effect.

Curtain Cuts never assigned the Patent License Agreement to a successor entity, and any purported assignment to Ms. Whitaker was not permitted and is a nullity. Yahudaii v. Baroukhian, 137 A.D.3d 539, 27 N.Y.S.3d 141, 142 (1st Dep’t 2016).

Re-acquiring title to the ’935 Patent by virtue of the Virginia Limited Liability Company Act, as she alleges in paragraph 13 of the Complaint, did not imbue Jennifer Whitaker with standing to enforce the Patent License Agreement in her individual capacity. Her allegation of receiving royalty payments directly from On the Right Track after the dissolution of Curtain Cuts [Complaint ¶ 25] is consistent with an oral arrangement for her to receive percentage royalties based on sales of products covered by the ’935 Patent – an arrangement from which she has benefitted for the past several years. Alleging such an arrangement does not lend any plausibility to her claim for breach of the Patent License Agreement. See Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 129 S.Ct. 1937, 1951 (2009) (complaint dismissed when there was an “obvious alternative explanation” for the challenged conduct); Twombly, 127 S.Ct. at 1971 (complaint dismissed when allegedly wrongful conduct consistent with “routine market conduct”).

Bereft of a claim for breach of the Patent License Agreement, Jennifer Whitaker cannot salvage her case by asserting claims sounding in quasi-contract. The existence of an express contract governing the subject matter of this case bars the unjust enrichment and quantum merit claims. Clark-Fitzpatrick, Inc. v. Long Island R. Co., 70 N.Y.2d 382, 388, 521 N.Y.S.2d 653, 656 (1987) (“The existence of a valid and enforceable written contract governing a particular subject matter ordinarily precludes recovery in quasi contract for events arising out of same subject matter”); Pu v. Dow, 168 A.D.3d 584, 92 N.Y.S.3d 244, 245 (1st Dep’t 2019) (“Having entered into a valid and enforceable agreement providing for contingent fee recovery only, plaintiff’s argument that he is entitled under quasi-contract theories to recover a fee based on his hourly rate is without merit”); ABL Advisor LLC v. Peck, 147 A.D.3d 689, 691, 49 N.Y.S.3d 35, 38 (1st Dep’t 2017) (“The existence of express contracts ... bars the unjust enrichment claim”).

I request that the Court set a briefing schedule on a motion to dismiss the Complaint.

Very truly yours,
